(Channeling begins)

Djwhal Khul here.

Spirituality Article information for the week of May 26, 2011. And I would begin with a note that you have on June 1st a solar eclipse and then we're going to have, we've got a heavy eclipse time coming up, even into the beginning of July.

So you have more weather pattern changes. It would be wise to start really studying weather patterns in the area you live in in conjunction with solar activity. I'd check www.spaceweather.com and some of those other places.

And take a look at what's going on cosmically speaking because of the positioning of your solar system in the Milky Way galaxy and a few other things are causing a basically bumpy ride right now. And then I expect the weather to get more severe: bigger storms, bigger quakes, more floods, that sort of thing so really if you're paying attention, you can see things coming usually about a week in advance, at least five days in advance, on the weather patterns.

Now earthquakes also give off clues but they're a little harder to figure out the sequence of events. There are people who do fairly good predictions.

So do be careful because things will increase. Generally speaking I would say everyone, no matter where you live, should be prepared with supplies and what not just in case. Especially prepared for at least for a three to five day window of having to do without normal conditions. And food supply, etc. medicines for yourself, your pets, etc.

Today, I want to talk about "Ethereic Helpers". When you know there is quite a lot going on in the world and you find yourself needing extra sleep, yawning a lot during the day, taking mandatory naps when you don't normally do so, or just needing that extra hour of sleep in the morning or whatever it is, you're probably one of the etheric helpers.

And literally, and I have talked about this a little before, but I want to say how and a little bit more detail, to give you choices. Now if your life is very, very busy and you can't afford to get a little extra sleep or something right now, this is probably not work cut out for you.

But if you do have a little extra meditation time or processing time during the day, or while you're sleeping at night, you can be one of the ones that does search and rescue on the inner planes or from the etheric field. In other words, you might be going to just wrap your energy field around someone who is waiting to be rescued. You can also ask for angels, legions of angels, to help draw attention to where they are located, if they are under some rubble, etc.

And people will survive for hours, days, weeks with etheric helpers supporting them. So this is one way in which you can feel empowered to help out when something on a large scale is happening there.

Alright that has been my Spirituality Article information for this week. We'll see you again next week. As always, thank you and my love to you,

Djwhal Khul
